

CARPE DANGER
HELEN FREDERICK

in water
brown
as chocolate
silk, merging
hungry hordes
breed

In waters brown as chocolate silk, merging hungry hordes breath, filling their blood with oxygen

CURLING
THE WATER
IN THEIR WAKE

continually moving through the water in that order to keep up with the pace

navigate
this area

then the signs about who can navigate this area, shapes left in the water

passed on where others have passed - passed through, gassed over, passed on leaping across each other, mirrored in a frantic passage, the heart chamber

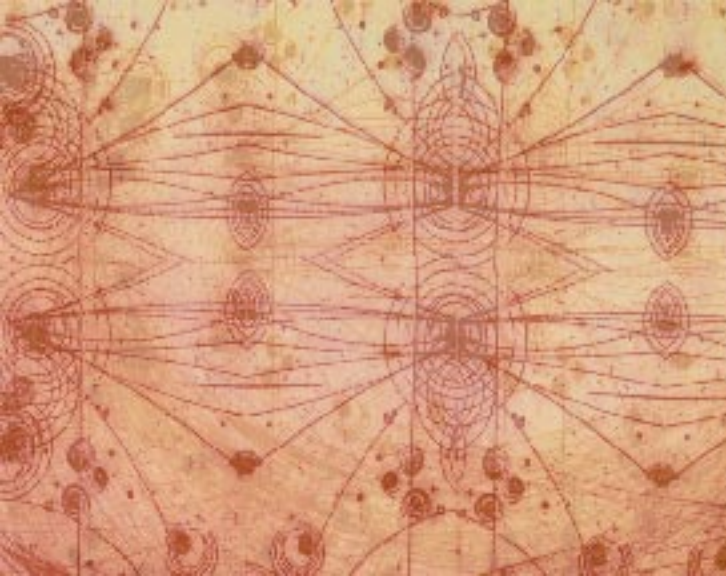

EMERGENCY

fills some who leave the emergency eating frenzy; others continue to move

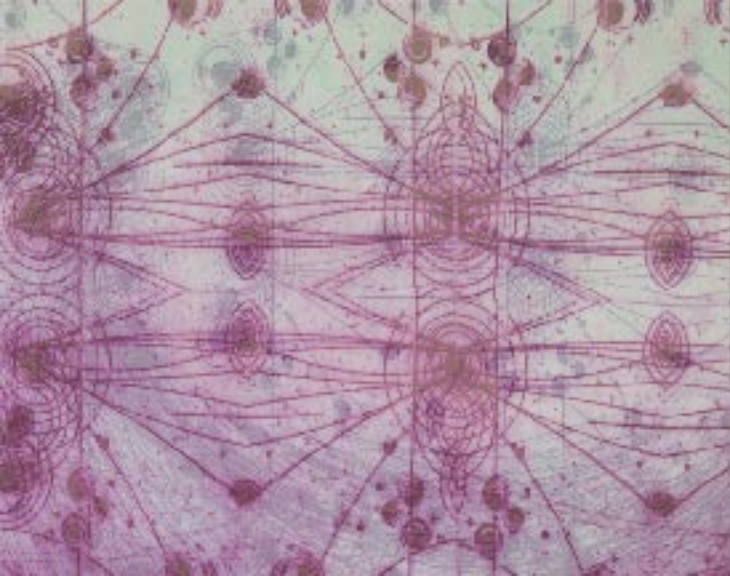

In search of a new current in the over populated reduction integrating the same black but not to the point line of doocent nature

takes care of those in the wrong place, wrong time

SWINGLO

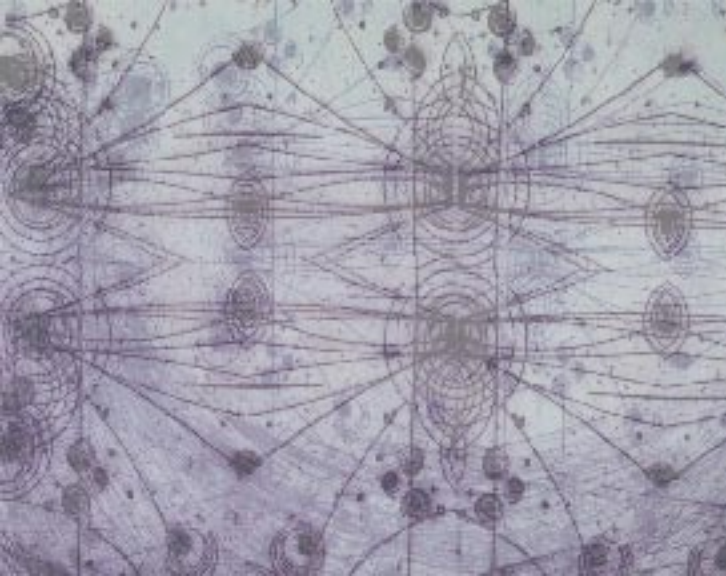

UP

HOPES

AND

reducing numbers, swallowing up hopes and desires,

DESIRE

HUNGER

to rebirth the uncontainable severity of hunger.

Figure 1. Diagram of the dome structure, showing the dome and the vaulted structure. The diagram is divided into three vertical sections. The left and right sections show a grid of lines and points, with a central vertical axis. The middle section shows a dense, overlapping pattern of lines, possibly representing a complex structure or a specific material. The overall appearance is that of a technical drawing or a scientific illustration from a historical document.